Program Services

Achievement	Pgm. Svc. Exp.
Land Conservation, General/Other: TLC Farm continued to conserve its remarkable program site by demonstrating deeply valuable public human uses that also improve native habitat function, biodiversity, and ecological health. This included volunteer activities with many youth and adult participants to selectively discourage highly active pioneer species (like English Ivy, Himalayan Blackberry, and the like), especially in maturing areas bordering Tryon Creek State Park. We also planted a food forest that creates a perennial polyculture with ecological function and human-useful production. (7 acres)	$7,384.00
Grants and Allocations: $0.00 This amount includes foreign grants: N/A
Environmental Education Programs, General/Other: Many educational programs were carried out by TLC Farm in 2007. The Hands-on Sustainability program brought 103 student field trips to TLC Farm in 2007, providing an estimated 2,558 learning hours. From pre-school to college, students learned about sustainable living through such activities as cob building, ecological gardening, habitat restoration, and medicinal plant identification. Through a grant from the City of Portland Bureau of Environmental Services, educational signs were being created to be installed around the property, informing visitors about the many ways TLC Farm is working towards environmental restoration and sustainable urban living. 7 interns immersed themselves in TLC Farm, from 1 - 10 weeks, participating in a wide variety of projects, from curriculum development to extensive gardening and animal husbandry. TLC Farm hosted volunteer service projects for over 200 participants, with groups including Nike, Audubon Expedition Institute, Gilkey Middle School, Lewis &amp; Clark College, and Northwest Service Academy Americorps. These volunteers assisted with the removal of invasive species, habitat restoration, and improving the organic garden. TLC Farm hosted 25 community workshops on a wide variety of sustainability-related topics, including residential permaculture design, tree planting, earthen plaster, wild foods, and medicinal herbs. Through a grant from the Spirit Mountain Community Fund, an education coordinator was hired to provide focus and increase the capacity of TLC Farm educational programs. Community Capacity Building programs: TLC Farm acted as a catalyst for building relationships with many other organizations in the context of a holistic relationship with the earth. This is done in a wide variety of ways: by making the farm available for events to many different kinds of organizations, who then build relationships with each other; by specifically creating our own events that bring diverse communities and organizations together; and by developing ongoing partnerships of many kinds. Organizations included City Repair, Architects Without Borders, Portland Permaculture Guild, Coalition for a Livable Future, Center for a Sustainable Today, Salmon Nation, and Sunroot Gardens. TLC Farm also became the classroom for the first outdoor Waldorf kindergarten in the United States. The Mother Earth Kindergarten provides a bio-immersion program for 15 children, who spend most of their time outside learning through direct experience with the environment. Environmental &amp; Sustainable Design, General/Other: TLC Farm continued to grow its research and demonstration projects exploring and illustrating integration of human and non-human habitat. TLC Farm volunteers transformed approximately 15,375 square feet (over one-third of an acre) from invasive blackberries into food forests and organic gardens. To better direct, manage and store storm water, three bioswales were created and native plants, fruit trees and herbs were planted. Portland's first public composting toilets were installed on the farm, even inspiring a Portland State University Master's Thesis on sustainable approaches to managing human waste. Sustainable animal husbandry was also showcased at TLC Farm through a Nubian dairy goat herd, which allowed city residents to see and learn about traditional farm animals. The goats also helped with invasive species removal, by grazing down fields of blackberries. TLC Farm also helped launch ReCode Portland, a regional campaign to identify and remove legal and other barriers to sustainable building and land use, such as allowing irrigation with bath &amp; shower water, or building with earthen materials.
